

2 November 2023

2023 AMEC Award Finalists

The Association of Mining and Exploration Companies (AMEC) is proud to announce the finalists of the prestigious AMEC Awards 2023.

AMEC Chief Executive Officer, Warren Pearce, said “With a record number of nominations, it was a daunting task for the judging panel to determine which companies and individuals had made a lasting impact on the industry over the past 12 months.”

Categories span across six key areas, as the awards ceremony provides an opportunity to showcase the industries commitment to exploration, the environment, diversity and inclusion, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander empowerment and contributions to the community.

“These awards acknowledge the incredibly hard work, determination, and responsibility that those working in the resources sector regularly demonstrate. All finalists should be extremely proud of the contribution they play in the industry.”

“I’d also like to thank those who nominated and we’re not selected on this occasion. As mentioned, it was an unenviable task to narrow down such an impeccable field of candidates.”

“From great exploration discoveries to embracing local communities and encouraging diversity in the workplace, the AMEC Awards continues to shine light on the positive contributions to the industry,” said Mr Pearce.

Winners will be announced at the annual AMEC Awards gala dinner on Thursday 30 November at Optus Stadium. To register, simply follow this link for tickets: <https://tinyurl.com/amecawards2023>

Attached and below are the finalists of the 2023 AMEC Awards

Prospector Award: Brad Underwood - Callisto Deposit
Matt Crowe, Luke Blais, Nick Chapman, Ross Chandler - Yin Discovery

Environment Award: Fortescue, Sandfire Resources, IGO & Hamelin Gold

Community Contribution Award: Topdrill, Fenix & Teck Australia

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Empowerment Award: Fortescue, S2 Resources & Thiess

Diversity and Inclusion Award: Bellevue Gold, Gold Road Resources & Mineral Resources

Media Award: ABC ‘Landline’ – Halina Baczkowski,
Money of Mine – Matt Michael,
ABC ‘The Business’ – Rachel Pupazzoni

ENDS –

For further information please contact AMEC Media & Communications Manager, Ryan Rampling - 0419 809 341